361 Delegates Bound by Law to Goldwater

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has 361 Republican National Convention delegates bound to him by state laws or party convention actions. That's more than half of the 677 first-ballot votes credited to him by an Associated Press survey.

The remainder of the votes in Goldwater's column come from delegates who say they favor the Arizona senator, including 35 who consider themselves personally pledged or committed and 28 who say they'll vote for him but are not personally pledged.

The total credited to Goldwater in the AP survey is 22 more than the 655 needed for the nomination—provided he can keep them between now and the GOP convention opening in San Francisco July 13.

Goldwater's votes stemming from a binding state primary election total 118; from instructions of a state or district GOP convention, 43.

This could rise if the last 14 delegates to be chosen, in Montana Friday are instructed for Goldwater.

Most politicians privately scoff at such terms as "legally binding." They contend that even such strict statutes as those in Oregon and Wisconsin governing the actions of delegates would be hard to uphold in the courts of another state, such as California, where the convention is to be held.

Republican convention rules recognize the right of any delegate to vote as he pleases, regardless of instructions from state conventions.

It is pointed out, however, that a rebel who ignored specific instructions from a state convention might find a chilly political atmosphere when he gets back home.

Assuming that instructions and primary commitments will be followed, Goldwater can count on 361 first-ballot votes from the following sources:

Primary election laws which require delegates to cast first ballots for the winner in California, with 86-votes, and Indiana, with 32. Besides that, Continued on Page Two

Jubilant Advocates of High Court Decisions Plan Other Fields in Racial Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jubilant over their big victory in the Supreme Court, advocates of the "one man, one vote" theory of government broadened their horizons today.

Their next target: such local government organizations as city councils, county boards of supervisors and even such units as water districts.

The Supreme Court, in a decision spelling great changes in the American governmental structure, ruled Monday that both branches of state legislatures must be apportioned according to population.

Aides in the office of Charles S. Rhyne, noted constitutional lawyer, said today the implications of Monday's rulings are even broader than most people realize.

Rhyne is former president of the American Bar Association and has been a kingpin in the drive on behalf of city residents and suburbanites to gain more voice in state legislatures most of which are dominated by steadily diminishing numbers of rural residents.

Rhyne's office took the view that the Supreme Court decision points the way to wholesale re-vamping of city councils and other governmental units.

They pointed, for example, to a decision which the Ohio Supreme Court handed down even before the nation's highest court

Spend School Money, County Is Ordered

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal court has given the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors one week to appropriate funds to reopen and operate public schools.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oren R. Lewis Wednesday night ordered the supervisors to levy taxes and raise funds to open the schools, closed in 1959 to avoid racial desegregation.

Judge Lewis told the board to act by June 25, one month to the day after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered Prince Edward to reopen the schools.

During an hour-long hearing Wednesday and at preliminary Monday, Judge Lewis offered the supervisors the initiative in reopening the schools. They did not take it. His tough order followed.

Judge Lewis declined to spell out exactly how much money the board should appropriate, as Continued on Page Two

No Barrier in Age by Peace Corps

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Age is no barrier for Warren Miller, a spy gentleman of 86 who took a Peace Corps placement test with a group of college students Saturday.

"I just wanted to see if I could pass it," he quipped. Miller has not made up his mind whether to bid for a Peace Corps appointment but, if he were accepted, he would be the oldest volunteer in the service.

The oldest now on the rolls is Ralph R. Cole, 78, of Dallas, who is in Pakistan.

The end of this summer suggests itself as the ideal time for the Red Chinese to apply the heavy pressure. The season of the monsoon rains is at hand now in Indochina, and it will last until the end of August. This provides a prospect of lull in military activity in Laos and South Viet Nam and time for diplomatic maneuvering.

Between now and then Peking seems bent upon a campaign of spreading fright among U.S. European and even Soviet public opinion that there can be calamitous consequences for all Asia and perhaps the whole world because of what's going on in Lao and Viet Nam.

Peking's aim at the moment is to create pressures for negotiated solutions in Laos and Viet Nam. Red China would demand complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

The Soviet Union also says it wants the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam.

The Red Chinese also seem to have aroused deep uneasiness in Moscow that the Southeast Asia situation can involve the U.S.S.R. in an untidy mess from which it might have little to gain and much to lose.

Agitated Moscow statements in the verbal war with the Chinese Communists accuse Peking of following a war policy, Moscow hardly wants a showdown in which it would be obliged to support Peking at the risk of raising danger of a general conflict in Asia.

Peking propaganda says peace in Southeast Asia hangs by a thread, that the United States is trying to compel Red China to use force in Laos.

On the diplomatic front, Peking's minimum demand is a new conference of the 14 nations which "neutralized" Laos in 1962. Only on this basis, it says, can there be a solution to the rri stirred by a Red grab of what had been territory of the neutralist Vientiane government.

Communists would use a new conference to drag in South Viet Nam with the aim of applying pressure for neutralization there too. President Ho Chi Minh of Red North Viet Nam has clarified what this means.

Ho said Vietnamese should be left alone to settle the question themselves "on the basis of national independence, peace and neutrality, so they can later attain peaceful reunification of Viet Nam in accordance with the program of the South Viet Nam national liberation front."

That is Ho's cover organization for the Communist Viet Con. What Ho is saying is that South Viet Nam should be left alone so that the Communists can take over completely.

Thinks China to Talk About War in Asia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Red China's leaders may be trying to generate panic in Europe and the United States by playing up the idea that a general war in Asia is just around the corner.

Tornado Dips in Mountain Home Area

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP) A tornado dipped down at the Promised Land Resort on Bull Shoals Lake Wednesday and ripped the top from a fishing dock where eight persons huddled for safety.

Walter Trauth, resort owner, was the only one hospitalized. He was reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday night.

No other buildings at the resort were damaged. The tornado continued from the dock, 12 miles north of Mountain Home, and touched down again in Arkansas just over the state line from Thayer, Mo. The damage in Arkansas was apparently confined to farm buildings.

It struck the edge of Thayer, toppling trees and power lines. There were no reports of casualties or injuries.

First reports indicated several boats operating out of the Bull Shoals dock had been swamped, but Trauth said, "We got them all back."

He was interviewed by telephone while waiting to be taken to a hospital for treatment of back injuries.

He described the brief storm as "definitely a twister."

Henry Karl of St. Louis, who was also on the dock, said the twister lifted the dock top up and scattered pieces of it, causing several minor injuries.

"This was a real twister. It came over the side of the hill by the lake, and dropped down to water level before it hit," Karl said.

"We all saw it coming and we huddled together," he said. "We didn't have time to leave."

Richter of Rushville, Neb.; Dr. Thurmond Smith of Little Rock; Dr. Lowell Dexter of Escondido, Calif., and Dr. Robert Kelly of Orange, Calif.

Candidates Can Have Free Time

Radio Station KXAR will conduct a "candidates conference" this Saturday, June 20. This is not a debate but an opportunity for county candidates to present their candidacy to the public.

County Clerk, Dick Turnage, will moderate the program. He will read the statute that describes the duties of that office and then introduce the candidates.

After they present their reasons for feeling they are best qualified to hold the job, the public may then phone in questions to each candidate. All questioners must identify themselves or their question will not be referred to the candidates.

It is anticipated the program will last about 2 hours, starting with the constables at 1 p.m.; going on to state Representatives, tax assessor, Sheriff, and County Judge. All candidates have been offered this opportunity by KXAR. Not all have accepted as of this date.

Government Must Decide Issue

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The commander-designate of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam said today he would not base in North Viet Nam.

Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland said this would be a matter for the U.S. government to decide, not military commanders.

He added that the war against the Communist Viet Cong in Viet Nam was reaching its most critical stage. He said he believed the Saigon government would triumph, but that victory might be slow in coming.

Westmoreland and members of his staff spent three days here studying techniques used to put down a 12-year revolt by Communist terrorists.

Way Cleared for Passage of Civil Rights Measure

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's long civil rights debate was in its dying hours today with a vote on final passage in prospect tonight or Friday.

As the Senate convened, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said it appeared likely the final vote would come Friday although he was hopeful that it might be tonight.

It was learned that some senators were absent today and that this was the chief problem in trying to arrange a vote tonight.

However, several senators were hoping that, if the final roll call is Friday, it could come at an early hour. They plan to fly to Mexico City in the afternoon for dedication Saturday of a new embassy in the Mexican capital.

Passage of the bill by a wide margin was foreshadowed Wednesday night — in the 31st day of the long struggle—when the senators substituted, by a 76-18 vote, the package drafted by leaders of both parties for the bill which passed the House on Feb. 10.

The substitute retains the basic antidiscrimination features of the original measure. It puts more emphasis on voluntary compliance and gives states with their own laws an opportunity to handle complaints before federal action is taken.

If the Senate approves the measure this week as expected, House leaders hope to have it on President Johnson's desk before adjourning July 2 in advance of the Republican National Convention.

The current House planning is to accept the Senate bill without change. Among those who have said there is a good chance the House will accept the Senate version is Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, who has been called the chief architect of the bill in the House.

Except for key portions of the section banning discrimination in employment, the bill will become effective as soon as the President signs it. Some provisions of this section would become effective immediately, others at intervals over the next three years.

All of Wednesday night's votes against the substitute package were cast by Southern senators who banded together under the leadership of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., to wage an all-out fight against the legislation.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, front-runner for the GOP presidential nomination, was recorded as voting in favor of substituting the package for the House-passed measure, although he actually did not vote. Hewas paired with Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who voted against making the substitution.

Negroes in Florida City Switch Tactics

By DON MCKEE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Negroes switched tactics again in their determined three-week siege against segregation in this city and marched singing through a white residential section in the middle of the night.

What form the next demonstration might take in this strange struggle was a matter of speculation as a grand jury in special session continued its closed door investigation of racial unrest.

Wednesday night's march, covering perhaps two miles, was the longest, loudest, latest and least eventful since the night treks over St. Augustine's historic pavements resumed nine days ago.

Three hundred marchers, including a group of Jewish clergymen from nine states, began the long walk shortly before 11 p.m.

As usual, they had a heavy police escort. The march route, checked out in advance by state police, was deserted until the procession neared U.S. 1A, a major tourist route.

A few white spectators watched, some perched on parked cars.

No spectator said anything. The marchers wound into the parking lot in front of Monson Motor Lodge, the major target in sit-in attempts. They held a prayer service and returned to the church where the march began.

Earlier Wednesday, 35 Negroes staged a two-hour wade-in at St. Augustine beach. All the white bathers except a woman and young boy left the water.

When a white man yelled for the woman to get out of the water, a city policeman told him: "You shut your mouth and keep out of this. This beach is integrated and there is no law against these people using it."

sought by Negro attorneys. He told the supervisors they must operate schools substantially equal to those in other rural counties.

The court continued its injunction against the payment of tuition grants for private education in the county as long as the public schools remain closed.

Lewis turned down a request by the Negro attorneys that he order the county to hire a public school faculty and school employees on a nondiscriminatory basis. He said the Supreme Court had not required it.

He said, however, the schools must be operated on a nondiscriminatory basis for the pupils.

A spokesman for the supervisors said in Farmville that he thought the board would meet before the weekend for a briefing by its special counsel, J. Segar Gravatt, and would "reach some decision by June 25."

Gravatt on Monday had asked the court what penalties the supervisors might expect if they "find it impossible to comply."

Lewis said Wednesday that prejudgment was improper. "Just let them disobey it," he said. "I'll tell them then what the penalty will be."

The supervisors cut off operating funds for the schools in 1959 after the U.S. District Court ordered Prince Edward to admit Negro pupils.

Since then white pupils have attended private, segregated schools. Negro children were without education until last September when free schools supported by public contributions were opened on a one-year emergency basis.

THE DAY THE DAM BROKE—Seventy-five years ago, on May 31, 1889, the city of Johnstown, Pa., was virtually wiped off the map. Heavy rains had sent the rivers over their channels in the community, with water standing up to 10 feet deep. The catastrophe occurred, however, when the South Fork Dam broke in the hills 16 miles northeast of the city. This tremendous body of water—three miles long, a mile wide and 60 feet deep—rushed wildly down the Conemaugh Valley into Johnstown, sweeping everything before it. More than 2,000 persons were drowned. This photo, taken a few days after the disaster, shows the broken remains of a once pulsing city.

Mosquito control workers in Arkansas County are prowling rice fields with BB guns—but not for gunnery practice on the pests.

Trouble developed with the tiration bottles that feed mosquito control chemicals into the rice flood water—they weren't getting enough air pressure when tilted up to let the chemical flow.

Southern district Extension Agent Leamon Looney came up with the idea of shooting a small hole in the bottom of the bottles, covering them with masking tape while filling them, then loosening the tape after the bottle was righted to do its work.

John Simpson has become an expert with the BB rifle, having ventilated more than a dozen bottles and breaking only one.

You have to be just the right distance away to make the BB pop out a little plug in the glass, then stop before shattering the whole jug.

Maybe next year they'll order bottles with ready made plugs, he hopes.

Trio Escapes Wreck Injuries

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—A Longview, Tex., couple and their infant daughter escaped serious injury Wednesday night when their light plane crashed into thick trees after takeoff from the municipal airport here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hollman and their 28-month-old daughter Lisa had only slight cuts and bruises.

Hollman said the plane's cowling blew off at 400 feet. The two-seat plane was demolished in the crash about 1 1/2 miles from the airport.

The Hollmans were en route to Marshall, Tex.

"DEAR ABBY"

IT SHOULD NEVER HAPPEN

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Last night I received a call from the mother of a 15-year-old girl. She said our 14-year-old son gave her daughter a black eye and a split lip. I was shocked and told my husband who then gave our son a good beating. I have seen the girl, and she is a good six inches taller, than our son and at least 30 pounds heavier so it was not a very fair match. Our boy said this girl started calling him names and, when he ignored her, started hitting and kicking him. He said he didn't want to fight her, but he wasn't going to stand there and let her beat him up, so he hit her in self-defense. Do you think our boy was wrong? What was he supposed to do?

MRS. M. Dear Mrs. M.: Under NO circumstances should a boy ever hit a girl. Being 30 pounds lighter, he could have easily left her a half a block behind.

Dear Abby: My husband got a Mexican divorce four months ago, or at least he claims he did. He has now remarried and is living in California. I did not sign any divorce papers. In fact, I didn't even see any. I didn't have a lawyer represent me in Mexico and I have it on good authority that my husband was never in Mexico. He got this divorce by proxy or something like that. Is he legally divorced from me and if he isn't how can he be legally married to somebody else? Am I a bigamist?

BEWILDERED Dear Abby: If your husband married another woman while he was still legally married to you, HE is the bigamist, not YOU. See a lawyer and find out where you stand.

Dear Abby: Why do people think they are doing a friend a favor when they go in gangs to visit them in a hospital? My sister recently had a baby and six of her friends came at exactly two p.m. and they stayed the full two-hour visiting time. When more came, nobody left—they just crowded around, sitting all over the bed and the window sill. They laughed and talked among themselves and made a regular party out of it. When nighttime came, my poor sister was so exhausted she had to have a hypo to put her to sleep. Whose fault is this? I say the nurses should not allow visitors to wear the patients out.

BURNED UP Dear Abby: Nurses cannot police every room. Most hospitals have rules limiting the number of visitors each patient may have, and how long they may stay. Furthermore surely a friend would not take offense, if the patient, on becoming tired nicely told her guests she wanted to nap a bit.

Confidential To R.F.J.: Living need not cost you any more today than it did 40 years ago. That is, if you don't mind living like they did 40 years ago.

Giants Move to Virtual Tie for Loop Lead

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are back to normal in Candlestick Park these days. Willie McCovey is delivering souvenirs to the kids who gather beyond the right-field fence when he swings. Alvin Dark is making the right moves and the Giants are winning ball games. Why things are so normal that Willie Mays is even hitting homers again.

That delightful combination of McCovey and Mays with a dash of Dark added for good measure, lifted San Francisco into a virtual tie for the National League lead Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Of course, things didn't look too good for 8 1/3 innings, but then the wheels of success sometimes grind slowly.

Cincinnati starter Joe Nuxhall had a six-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth. The veteran left-hander had helped his own cause with a homer in the fifth to balance Mays' 19th homer which came in the first. Nuxhall got Jim Davenport leading off the ninth but then Jose Pagan rapped a single. That's when Dark made his big move.

He motioned McCovey, the rangy lefty hitter who's been battling a season-long slump, to bat for right-handed Del Crandall against the southpaw pitcher.

That's wrong you say? He's supposed to let the righty batter hit against the left pitcher? Maybe, but who can argue with success? Certainly not the Giant players who mobbed McCovey after Nuxhall's second pitch landed among the youngsters behind that right-field fence.

The victory moved the Giants within seven percentage points of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who ran afoul of Billy Williams and lost to Chicago 9-5. In other NL games, Pittsburgh's Bob Friend won his 11th straight against the New York Mets 3-2. St. Louis nipped Houston 2-1 and Sandy Koufax fired his fourth shutout as Los Angeles blanked Milwaukee 5-0.

In the American League, Baltimore moved into first place, beating Chicago 6-1. Cleveland swept two from Minnesota 5-2 and 5-0. Boston edged New York 4-3 in 12 innings. Detroit nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings and Los Angeles topped Washington 5-3.

McCovey was batting .200 and had just three hits against left-handers this season before tagging Nuxhall. The homer was his 10th.

Almost as welcome as McCovey's blast was the one Mays unloaded in the first inning. The Say-Hey Kid had been held homerless for 19 games before connecting.

Williams smashed two homers and knocked in five runs as the Cubs cut the Phillies down. He also had a triple and raised his league-leading batting average to .382.

Reliever Jack Baldson wild pitched Chicago's lead run across in the seventh after the Phillies had blown an early lead.

Friend, who has never lost to the Mets, received shoddy fielding support from the Pirates, but survived with a strong eighth-inning. The Pirates tagged loser Tracy Stallard for all their runs in the first inning with Willie Stargell's ninth homer accounting for two of them.

Ray Washburn gave up hits to the first two Houston batters he faced and then held the Colts hitless into the eighth inning before tiring. Before it was over Manager Johnny Keane needed three more pitchers to lock up the Cardinal victory.

Washburn's double in the eighth started the winning rally for St. Louis. Ken Boyer's 11th homer accounted for the other Cardinal run.

Koufax had a no-hitter for 4 1/3 innings before Mike de la Hoz dropped a single off Maury Wills' glove. The Braves added two more hits but never threatened and the Dodger lefty coasted to his ninth victory.

Rookie Derrell Griffith homered to lead an 11-hit Dodgers attack.

Graduations Marked by Integration

By DON MCKEE

Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Graduation

exercises in some Southern high schools this year marked not only the educational pivot point for students but also a historic stage of desegregation.

Three Negroes were graduated from formerly white schools in Birmingham, Ala.,

a significant first or what was the nation's major racial battleground a year ago.

No accurate count can be obtained on over-all Negro and white graduation figures since some school systems keep no racial breakdown.

But a survey showed the percentage of Negroes graduating from formerly white high schools in the South was very small.

In Little Rock, Ark., where seven years ago federal troops enforced the initial desegregation, a Negro girl graduated with high honors and was named a Presidential Scholar.

The girl, Jacquelyn Faye Evans, also was named to the National Honor Society.

She had an A-plus average in her final year at Little Rock

High, a predominantly white

Asked if she had any trouble

because of her race, she said:

"Not very much trouble; in fact, none to speak of."

Did she get a better education at the mostly white school?

"I think so but there is no way I could prove it," she said.

In Tampa, Fla., Willie Straw-ter, 17, was the first Negro to graduate from a desegregated

school — Hillsborough County

High. He was the school's only junior year.

School officials said Strawter was a excellent student, with an A average. He has been accepted by Stetson University at Deland, Fla., for the fall term and plans to major in some branch of science.

"As far as getting along with

Orioles Defeat White Sox to Regain Lead

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sport Writer

Sam Mele probably wonders

where the wallop went.

The Minnesota Twins' manager watched his wrecking crew, home run scourge of the major leagues with 93 circuits, get felled in by Cleveland pitching for 18 innings Wednesday night as the Indians swept a double-header, 3-2 and 5-0.

Pedro Ramos, a former Twin, didn't help Mele's disposition. Pistol Peet, whose gopher ball tendencies prompted his departure from Minnesota two years ago, blanked his old mates on seven hits and belted one of two Cleveland homers in the nightcap. Max Alvis, whose ninth-inning clout broke up the opener, hit the other.

The defeats dropped Minnesota into fifth place, one percentage point behind the Indians, in the American League pennant race.

The Baltimore Orioles took the league lead by one game over Chicago when they defeated the White Sox 6-1 behind rookie sensation Wally Bunker. New York fell 1½ games off the pace, dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston in 12 innings.

The Detroit Tigers nipped Kansas City 3-2 on Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles outlasted Washington 5-

Birth Control Pill Speeds Cancer

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)—The developers of a nationally marketed birth control pill, Enovid, said today a recent medical finding indicating that use of the oral contraceptive speeds development of cancers present in laboratory animals "is at complete variance with other laboratory and clinical data."

The finding, to be presented next week at the American Medical Association meeting in San Francisco, was announced by doctors at the University of Oregon Medical School.

The doctors, in a preliminary report published in the journal of the AMA, said Enovid accelerated the development and growth of tumors on rats with hormone-sensitive breast cancer.

A spokesman for G. D. Searle & Co., developer of Enovid, said:

"Published data does not indicate that the incidence of cancer of the reproductive organs in women receiving Enovid is above the normal rate in women not receiving Enovid."

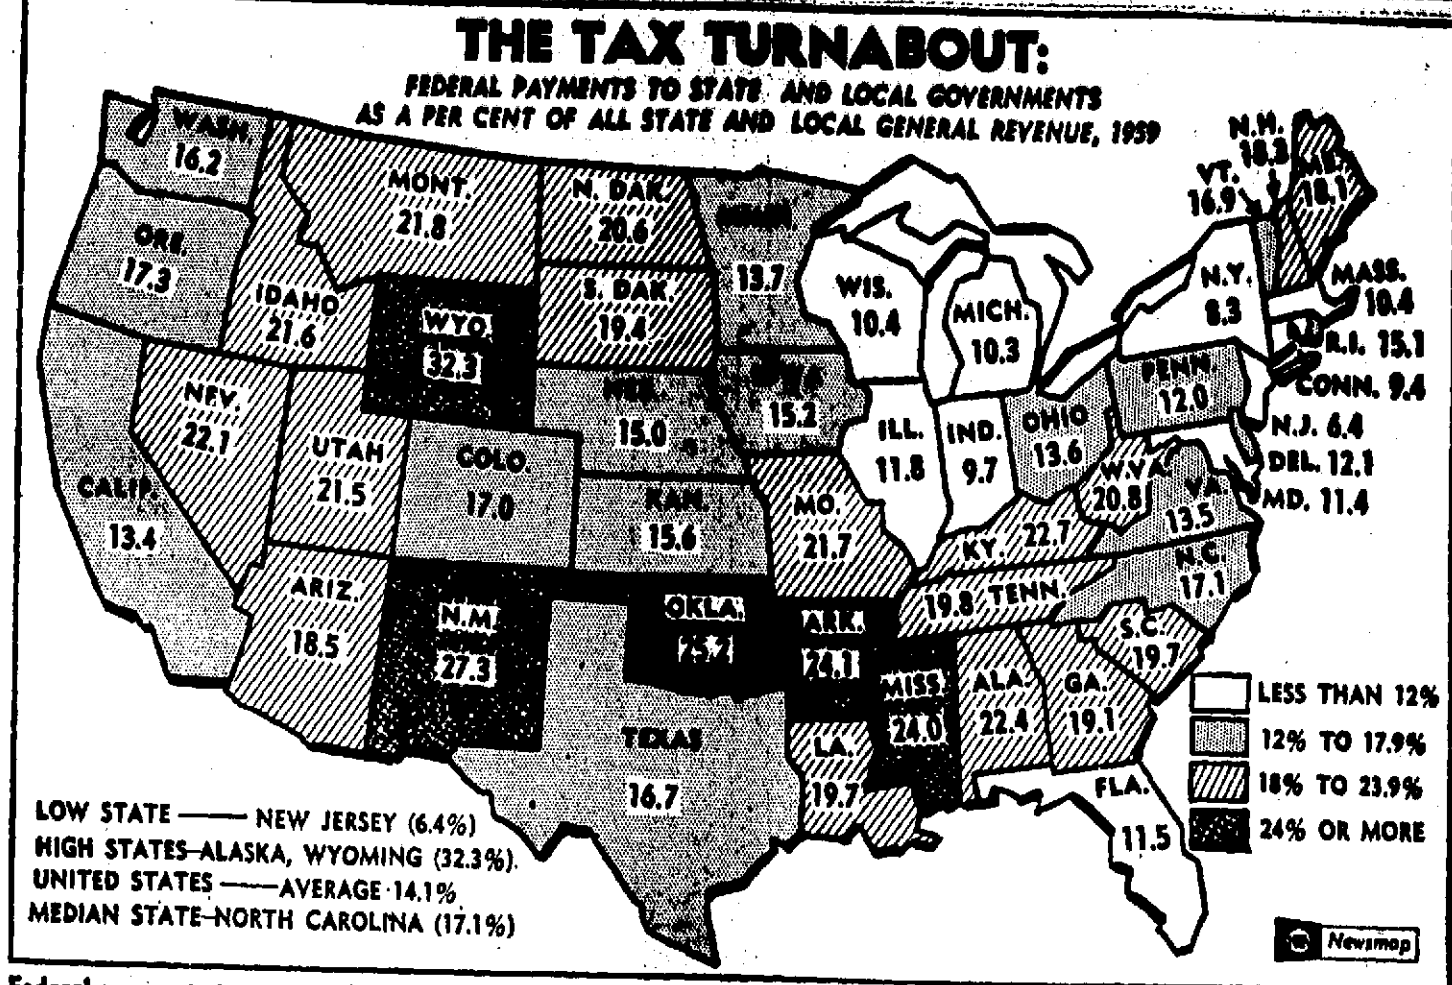

"In fact, the data suggests that the incidence of breast and genital cancer in women receiving Enovid actually is less than the normal expectancy in women not receiving Enovid."

The spokesman said the firm's research findings indicate that "these West coast animal studies, which were made with strain of rats particularly susceptible to cancer, will demonstrate more favorable results if continued for a longer period."

Red Threat Is More Serious

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A high-ranking U.S. military official said today the Communist threat to South Viet Nam is far more serious than it was when he first came here nearly three years ago.

Communist Viet Cong forces who control much of the countryside are "much better armed and professionally more competent" today than they were three years ago, he told newsmen in a farewell briefing before his departure for Washington.

The biggest problem the United States faces, the officer said, is the problem of getting the Vietnamese government and army to accept American advice.

The officer's unusually outspoken remarks were given to newsmen on condition that he could not be quoted by name, but he could be identified as a high-ranking U.S. Army officer.

His comments were similar to informal comments from American military advisers frequently heard in the field in sharp contrast to the relatively optimistic statements of official U.S. military spokesmen in Saigon.

The report said most cotton stands are good and free of grass, weeds and insects. Yields of wheat, oats and other small grains are above average in most areas, the service said.

About four-fifths of the planned soybean crop is planted and early cultivation is making normal progress.

Early rice is receiving second flood. Lack of moisture has hurt early corn, sorghum planting is incomplete, hay baling is making good progress in all areas and a good crop of fescue seed is being harvested in South Arkansas.

Picking of peaches is well under way in the Clarksville and Nashville areas. Apple and grape prospects are favorable. Harvest of tomatoes and cucumbers is good, but harvest of boysenberries and green beans is below average.

The outlook for watermelons and okra is favorable. The service said pastures are deteriorating because of hot, dry weather, but cattle are still in good condition.

Weather Has Been Good for Crops

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Hot weather during the week ended Tuesday stimulated growth of most Arkansas crops, but rain again is needed in some areas, the Crop Reporting Service said Wednesday.

The service said cotton was favored by the hot and sunny weather, but rain is necessary if the crop is to continue normal progress.

Says Wirges Working for Rockefeller

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Wednesday night he thought Gene Wirges was working for Winthrop Rockefeller and indicated he will not debate the former Morrilton editor on Conway County political issues.

Faubus said in an interview on Television Station KATV (Channel 7) he thought Wirges was working for the Republican candidate for governor, and "wants to cause me all the trouble he can."

Wirges, he said, "has been frustrated in many of his efforts in Conway County."

"I have never accepted invitations to debate his kind," Faubus said.

Wirges said in a rebuttal interview over the same station that Faubus has taken the position of defending Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins in the dispute.

Wirges said that in 1959 Faubus said the Conway County political situation should be investigated. "He apparently has changed his mind," Wirges said.

The former editor of the Morrilton Democrat lost the newspaper to creditors last year. $275,000 were returned against him.

He challenged Faubus to a "poor boy" debate by letter. Several weeks ago Hawkins challenged Wirges to a debate.

Wirges said he couldn't get the money. In other comment during the interview, Faubus said he had been sure the Republican delegates to the national convention would not be allowed to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater until the Arizona senator already had enough votes to win the presidential nomination.

Of Negro efforts to integrate Little Rock's War Memorial swimming pool he said: "This points up the difficulty of reaching an agreement with radical Negroes."

He said as a result of the attempt "they have caused the denial of swimming privileges at either pool, white or Negro."

The city closed its two pools, one for whites and one for Negroes and announced they were for sale.

Plans Complete for Bankruptcy

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Bankruptcy proceedings for Scott Valve Co. were completed here Tuesday before Referee in Bankruptcy Arnold M. Adams. Claims allowed against the firm were not available.

Nibco, Inc., of Elkhart, Ind., bought the firm for $436,700 on Nov. 19.

Scott moved to Blytheville in 1961 after voters approved a $350,000 bond issue to build and equip a factory building.

The company announced Sept. 17, 1963, that it had lost $180,000 in the preceding 11 months, and it went into bankruptcy last Oct. 11.

Attorneys said creditors whose claims Adams allowed would be paid soon.

He Is Concerned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus sympathized with a delegation from Newport which asked him Wednesday for but Hawkins demanded that he post $200,000 bond to guarantee the truth of statements he might make. Wirges said he couldn't get the money.

In other comment during the interview, Faubus said he had been sure the Republican delegates to the national convention would not be allowed to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater until the Arizona senator already had enough votes to win the presidential nomination.

Arkansas is not, but the state's present districts could remain as they are unless some one sues to have them changed. Municipal leagues in other states have sued to change apportionment systems and legislative districts.

Self-determination Right Is Asked

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard appealed to the Soviet Union today to grant the German people the right of self-determination.

He spoke at a memorial service for the more than 500 persons killed in East Germany during the revolt against communism on June 17, 1953. The day is an official holiday in West Germany dedicated to German unity.

In Berlin, West German President Heinrich Lübke and Mayor Willy Brandt laid wreaths on the graves of Berliners who were killed in the Soviet repression of the revolt.

Municipal League Plans Action

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Municipal League may consider at its next executive session whether to file suit to seek reapportionment of Arkansas' legislature.

Glenn G. Zimmerman, league executive director, said the league had not yet discussed such a suit. The next executive session is next month, he said.

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that state legislatures must be apportioned by population districts as equal as possible.

Arkansas is not, but the state's present districts could remain as they are unless some one sues to have them changed. Municipal leagues in other states have sued to change apportionment systems and legislative districts.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Arkansas Traveler General Manager Ray Winder announced Wednesday that catcher Bob Lipski had been sold to Jacksonville of the International League, and would be replaced by Bill Heath.

Heath, 25, is now hitting .286 for Chattanooga in the Class AA Sally League. He was with the Travelers briefly last season. Lipski was batting .264 at the time of the sale.

Television and Radio
By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) - Sikkim is sparkling little jewel of a kingdom set in the lofty Himalayas between Tibet and India. Most Americans probably had never heard of it until last year when 21-year old Hope Cooke of New York married its crown prince.

Now, courtesy of the magic of television and the talents of NBC's imaginative producer Lou Hazam and his camera-writing team, millions of us know a lot about this tiny, beautiful Buddhist country - its rain forests and orchids, its principal export - cardamom, a fragrant spice - its market places and its royal palace.

The former Miss Cooke is now Sikkim's queen and her husband, Thondup, is its king. They were our guides Wednesday night during an hour's trip around the country. Color cameras made the most of the hold reds of the lamas, the uniforms of the palace guard, the burnished gold of the religious statues and of the magnificent mountain scenery.

It was not all mountain scenery. Like other Hazam-produced special programs - "The Nile" a camera trip down U.S. Route 1 and a journey on the Orient Express - the program was a treat to the eyes, ears and mind and a reminder of television's potential as a real window on the whole wide world.

Confirming our worst fears, there is now a singing group called "The American Beatles." For disbelievers they will be singing "School Days" next Saturday on ABC's "American Bandstand" show.

NBC's "Sunday" show on June 21 will include some highlights of the Army - McCarthy senate hearings of 10 years ago.

Plan to Aid Draft Rejects Has Failed
By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Johnson administration's "human salvage" program to rehabilitate rejected draftees has proved a dismal disappointment so far.

Of 134,500 youths contacted in the first three months, only 189 have been placed in training programs, jobs - many of them of brief duration - were found for 2,200.

Only 17.5 per cent of the rejected draftees even bothered to respond to the government's letters telling them where to get help.

When first announced last January, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz hopefully called it "the most important human salvage program in the history of our country."

Administration officials had hoped to assist some 35,000 young men in the first four months.

While conceding some serious problems in the initial stage of the program, the Labor Department isn't giving up.

Spokesmen say the biggest problem is getting in direct contact with youths who have been rejected for physical or educational reasons and convincing them there are federal programs that can help them.

Selective Service officials have held the addresses of rejected youths are confidential and insisted in sending contact letters, rather than letting Labor Department counselors get in touch directly with the youths.

The two agencies are now working on a procedure to get permission of the rejected youths to give their addresses to other federal agencies.

LBJ Wants to Avoid All Mudslinging

By FRANK CORMIER

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson called on Americans today to avoid "cheap, mud-slinging personal politics" and instead glory in the American system.

In a n off-the-cuff speech at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, Johnson said Americans "have much to be thankful for, much to preserve, and much to protect."

As a crowd estimated at 15,000 cheered, Johnson went on: "If we can just restrain ourselves from eating on each other, and not tear each other to pieces and point out the good things about our land and our system, America will not only be the land of the free, but the land of the prosperous and the brave."

Johnson flew to Cleveland to address the annual convention of the Communication Workers of America, FL-CIO.

In remarks prepared for that event, the President called for the establishment of a national manpower policy through the cooperative efforts of labor, management and government.

Wants to End Colonialism in Religion

By STEPHENS BROENING

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Right Rev. Stephen F. Bayne is a 20th century cleric concerned with the ending of what he calls "ecclesiastical colonialism."

Bishop Bayne is soon to become overseas director of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

When he succeeds Bishop John Bentley in November he will be responsible for the Church's 16 overseas dioceses and the 1,600 clerical and lay workers in them.

Some say he is being considered as a successor to the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger as presiding bishop of America's 3.5 million Episcopalians.

Whatever his job, Bishop Bayne has a reputation for getting things done.

Interviewed while here on a speaking engagement, he was asked:

"When you were bishop of the Olympia, Wash., diocese the congregation there doubled in 12 years, didn't it?"

"Tripled," he corrects, "but it would have happened without me."

At the 1958 Lambeth conference of Episcopal bishops he was the architect of a report endorsing contraception as a liberating force in family planning.

Soon after the conference he was made executive officer of the Anglican Communion, the loose federation of the 18 autonomous Episcopal churches.

"The future of the Church," Bishop Bayne says, "is tied up with the ecumenical movement."

"A single Christian Church?" he muses. "Could there ever be one? Not forseeably. What we can look forward to is the bringing together of the diverse elements."

"There are already signs of it. The Methodists, Presbyterians and Episcopalians and the rest have started consultations. Out of them may come some unities."

"The United States, of course, is the toughest nut to crack ecumenically. We like our free market religion, a church for every price class."

"But this fragmentation cannot continue. The massive social problems, like the racial question and the inner city dilemma, cannot be handled with a series of religious clubhouses. There has to be some common planning."

Bishop Bayne, a trim, bespectacled 50, had his beginnings in New York—"I was brought up as a devout kid."

Educated at Amherst, he worked for a year on Wall Street before deciding to enter the seminary. "I was ordained in the teeth of the depression," he says.

After a six-year stint in St. Louis, Mo., Bayne served as wartime chaplain at Columbia University.

In 1947 he was catapulted, he says to take over the Olympia diocese.

Faubus Will Not Debate Wirges

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gene Wirges challenged Gov. Orval E. Faubus to a "poor boy" debate, but Faubus' office said Wednesday that the governor could not respond until reading the challenge.

Wirges asked in a letter to Faubus to debate the Conway County political situation.

Faubus' office said he had received the letter, but had been too busy to read it.

Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins challenged Wirges several weeks ago to a debate, but Hawkins demanded that Wirges post $200,000 bond to guarantee that he would make no libelous statements. Wirges said he couldn't get the money.

Wirges, former editor of the Morrilton Democrat, lost the newspaper to creditors last year after libel judgments totaling $275,000 were returned against him.

Says Barry Fears Debate on Television

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton accused Sen. Barry Goldwater Wednesday of lacking the courage to face him in a television debate, and then retracted the statement hours later.

The attack was the Pennsylvania governor's sharpest ever on a political opponent.

Scranton set a precedent in his own style of political campaigning at St. Louis when he said Goldwater "lacks the courage to face people." The question came up when Scranton was asked to comment on Goldwater's refusal to debate him on television.

Scranton said Goldwater had insulated himself from the public by refusing to hold news conferences and using only prepared material in his addresses.

"I don't consider that to be the right type of candidate to have in America," the governor told newsmen.

A few hours later Scranton told a Denver news conference that his use of the word "courage" in that earlier press conference "was an ill-advised use of the word."

He said he believed Goldwater "has personal courage and nobody denies that. I don't."

Scranton added: "But since the New Hampshire campaign he has been guarded and hemmed in by the politicians around him."

The reason, said Scranton, is because the American people would "become even more disenchanted by what are his real views."

Despite the criticism, Scranton said he would support Goldwater for the presidency if the senator is nominated. He said any Republican would be better than President Johnson.

The governor left Denver Wednesday night after 72 hours of delegate raiding in states generally counted as leaning toward Goldwater.

Scranton headed back to Harrisburg for a day of catch-up work on state business left by adjournment of the legislature and further planning for his presidential nomination bid.

The legislative adjournment led Scranton to cancel a foray into Utah to meet with delegates of that state.

In some 4,000 miles of flying that began Monday morning in Scranton, Pa., the governor met with delegates and GOP leaders in Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri and Colorado, as well as in his home state.

Campaign aides said the governor's flying trip was a success and indicated Scranton could expect great second-ballot strength.

The Associated Press delegate poll now puts Goldwater's delegate support at 677—more than enough for nomination, if they hold up through the first ballot at San Francisco.

After the respite at Harrisburg, Scranton plans to fly to Louisville, Ky., Friday afternoon, and from there to Boston, Mass., to keynote the Massachusetts Republican Convention Saturday.

Plant Produces Despite Strike

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Virco Manufacturing Co. remained in production here Wednesday despite a strike by about 100 employees.

A company spokesman said Virco, which makes tables and chairs, was hiring new employees to replace the strikers, and production should be back to normal in six or seven days.

About 100 of the 135 employees who are members of the United Steelworkers Union went on strike Monday.

The union was recently certified as bargaining agent for the employees. The strike began over contract disagreements.

Officials said no attempts to negotiate a strike settlement were planned.

Says Walker Halted Try to Stop Violence

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—

An Episcopal priest testified today he believed a speech by former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker thwarted the minister's efforts to stop violence during a 1962 riot on the University of Mississippi campus.

The Rev. Duncan Gray Jr., 28, Oxford, Miss., testified for The Associated Press in the trial of Walker's $2-million suit against The AP.

Gray, a native of Mississippi, is the son of the Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Mississippi.

"His speech impressed me as further inflaming and inciting the students," Gray said. "to me it encouraged what was already the riot."

The minister said he and the Episcopal chaplain of the university, the Rev. Walker Smith, went to the campus the night of Sept. 30, 1962, to try to calm the rioting students.

"At first we had considerable success. A great many would give up their weapons when we explained to them what they were doing was wrong. They were doing harm to themselves, the university and the community," he said.

Then, Gray said, Walker mounted a Confederate monument and spoke to the students. He quoted Walker as saying "I want to congratulate you students on what you are doing here tonight."

Gray said Walker told them "to stand fast, be firm, thousands are behind you, you will win in the end."

Gray said when he attempted to speak to the students he was pulled to his knees, then picked up and pushed to the edge of the crowd by several men including one law enforcement officer.

"By the time I got back, the crowd was moving in a general movement which you might call a charge toward the U. S. marshals," he testified.

On cross-examination, Gray said that before Walker's speech "small unorganized groups" attacked the marshals. However, after the speech, there were more coordination, there were more people involved, it was of more magnitude," Gray said.

Gray testified he did not see

Walker after the speech and had no impression he was going to lead them in a charge or personally do anything."

Every State Faces Major Changes

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Practically every state in the union faced today an explosive change in its lawmaking and politics which would eventually give city voters a more equal voice in their state governments.

The Supreme Court, arguing that "legislatures represent people, not trees or acres," decreed Monday that seats in both houses of every state legislature must be apportioned by population.

The decision held unconstitutional the division of representation in six states—Virginia, Maryland, New York, Delaware, Alabama and Colorado—but foreshadowed a similar holding in as many as 40 other states.

Reaction was swift and noisy—joy from urban leaders and outrage from state's righters and rural-dominated legislatures.

Both Republicans and Democrats, digging into voting and population charts, figured the decision should help them.

All agreed that rural residents who for generations have held a disproportionate share of voting power in most states, would be the losers.

The problem pondered in statehouses today was what to do. Special sessions of the legislatures may be needed in some cases. Fortunately the court gave time for planning and preparations. It ruled that action on the decision need not be taken before this year's general elections Nov. 3.

But it noted that in Maryland's case it does not have a state election until 1966 and it added that "under no circumstances" should that election be conducted pursuant to the existing or any other unconstitutional plan.

In its decision, the court held unconstitutional the so-called "little federal" systems in which state legislatures are made up like the U.S. Congress with districts represented equally in one house and by population in the other.

This aspect of the ruling was called "utter nonsense" by Dr. William Prendergast, research director for the Republican National Committee.

"There's no sense in having two houses if they represent the same thing," he declared. "I trust they won't find the U.S. Senate unconstitutional."

This was much the same view of Gov. John Connally of Texas, a Democrat, who said: "The ruling does violence to at least a measure of the checks and balances we've adhered to in our legislative bodies since the foundation of this country."

Some governors ranted, including Arkansas' Orval E. Faubus, who charged that the court had intruded on what is "clearly a state matter" and said, "This ruling lends an awful lot of credence to the views of those extremists who want to impeach Warren."

Chief Justice Earl Warren wrote the majority opinions in all six cases Monday.

Many governors and legisla-

Court Widens Protection to Individuals

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—In two tremendous decisions this week the Supreme Court broadened its protection of individuals against self-incrimination when in trouble with either the federal or state governments.

It ruled:
1. The Constitution's Fifth Amendment protection—that a witness can refuse to give evidence he fears might incriminate him—applies to both state and federal proceedings.

2. Testimony of a witness promised immunity from prosecution by a state if he does testify in a state court cannot then be used to prosecute him in a federal court, and vice versa.

The Constitution's Bill of Rights adopted in 1791—including the Fifth Amendment—had been insisted upon by the states as protection for them and their citizens against the powerful central, federal government.

Active leaders took the view that the court's decisions were final and definite and the sooner they were complied with the better.

"I regard this decision as the law of the land and it is up to us to carry out reapportionment in accordance with the guidelines set down by the Supreme Court," said Delaware's Gov. Elbert N. Carvel.

Several other governors, including Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, said legal conferences would be held to decide what their states had to do and when.

In several states, court cases are pending whose outcome will determine what action must be taken and when. The lower court findings are bound to be influenced by the Supreme Court's opinions.

32 Counties Wouldn't Have Own Representative If Strict Apportionment Carried Out

Auditorium Land Acquired

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Fort Smith Mayor Robert Brooksher said Monday that negotiations have been completed for acquiring property on which a $1.5 million auditorium will be built.

Fort Smith voters approved in 1960 a bond issue to help finance construction costs of the 1,685-seat auditorium, but acquisition of the property has been held up by negotiations.

The structure will be located in the Sebastian County court house in downtown Fort Smith. Brooksher said it is hoped that construction will start shortly after the first of the year.

For more than 100 years the Supreme Court reasoned this Bill of Rights applied to the federal government only, not to the states, although the 14th Amendment had been added to the Constitution in 1868.

This amendment, adopted three years after the Civil War, was intended to protect citizens, at that time particularly Negroes, from encroachment on their constitutional rights by the states.

It said in part: "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

In short, national citizenship was paramount to state citizenship. Eventually but slowly the court began to overlap the 14th Amendment with parts of the Bill of Rights to protect citizens from unconstitutional state actions.

But as late as 1947 the court was ruling that the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination applied only to witnesses in federal proceedings, not to those in states. States, therefore, could suit themselves in this field.

On Monday the court reversed itself, cutting a new path, with a neat overlapping of the Fifth and 14th amendments. Justice William J. Brennan wrote the court's opinion.

It said a witness who balks at incriminating himself in state proceedings can invoke the protection of the Fifth Amendment. Brennan said: such a person is not only protected by the Fifth Amendment from self-incrimination but by the 14th's guarantee that he can't be deprived of liberty without "due process" of law.

Brennan wrote that the court had gradually been leading up to this historic point ever since the 1930s in a series of decisions which ruled out conviction in persons who had been coerced into confessing crimes.

All this links up with something else which has been one of the odities of the American legal system. This involves a man who might have committed both a state and federal offense.

For some reason of its own a state, perhaps to nail some other offenders, could promise him immunity against prosecution in a state court if he testified. But—the federal government, which had promised him nothing, could then use his state court testimony to prosecute him in a federal court.

As late as 1944 the Supreme Court ruled he federal government could do this. This week the court reversed this previous decision and laid down a flat rule for all such problems in the future.

Justice Arthur J. Goldberg wrote the opinion which said there is no justification for permitting a man to be prosecuted for giving testimony which was supposed to make him immune to prosecution.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Thirty-two Arkansas counties would no longer have a state representative all their own if the Arkansas House were apportioned strictly on a population basis.

And the legislators who would have to run in more than one county include some of the most powerful men in the lower chamber.

Men such as Speaker Marion Crank of Little River County, Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, Cleveland County Rep. Raymond Mays, Carroll County Rep. Pat Teague, Izard County Rep. John Miller, Montgomery County Rep. Ode Maddox, Prairie County Rep. John Bethell and Woodruff County Rep. Jack Oakes.

Each of their counties falls far short of the average population figure of 17,862 reached by dividing Arkansas population of 1,786,272 by the 100 House seats.

Most of these men are members of the Legislative Council, the powerful out-of-session arm of the legislature. They lead or belong to the powerful committees which now control most legislation in the lower chamber.

Some of them could not be elected if they had to campaign outside their own bailiwicks. Their elective success would depend on how their counties are aligned under reapportionment.

Van Dalsem represents the smallest county. He is answerable to only 4,297 persons. Crank's county has 9,211, Mays' 6,944, Miller's 6,766, Maddox' 5,370, Bethell's 10,515, Oakes' 13,95 and Teague's 11,284.

Other counties which run in the 5,000 to 13,000 population range are Baxter 9,943, Calhoun 5,991, Cleburne 9,059, Dallas 10,522, Franklin 10,213, Fulton 6,657, Grant 8,294, Howard 10,878, Johnson 12,421, Lafayette 11,030, Madison 9,068, Marion 6,041, Nevada 10,700, Newton 5,963, Pike 7,864, Polk 11,981, Randolph 12,520, Scott 7,297, Searcy 8,124, Sevier 10,156, Sharp 6,319, Stone 6,294, Van Buren 7,228 and Yell, 11,940.

Pulaski County would be the big gainer. Its 242,980 residents would entitle it to 14 or 15 representatives. It now has 11.

Reminders About That Big Fuss

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP)—Minnesota's senior citizens, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Sholberg, will be looking over scores of greeting cards today as a reminder of what that fuss was all about.

Sholberg had his 102nd birthday and his wife her 100th Tuesday.

Their daughter, Miss Clara Sholberg, said her parents received scores of letters and cards, "but they haven't had time to look at any of them."

One of the messages came from President Johnson. There was an all-day open house for the couple, who emigrated from Norway in the 1870s. They were married in 1886. All their eight children were here for the festivities.

Memphis — The Memphis Public Housing Authority is considering renaming its Lauderdale Courts project after its most famous ex-resident, Elvis Presley.

But the singer-actor wasn't always held in such high esteem. The authority still has on file a complaint from a neighbor asking Elvis tone down his guitar playing at night.

HYDERABAD, West Pakistan (AP)—Flood waters from a week of severe wind and rain storms coursed through the Hyderabad region today. More than 250 were known dead, but communications were still out in many areas.

Thousands of homes were flattened and more than 60,000 cattle destroyed.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Six South Korean journalists arrested earlier this month during riotous antigovernment demonstrations have been referred to army prosecutors for possible military trial.

The martial law command also announced indictment of three student leaders of the demonstrations in insurrection charges. If convicted, they could get the death penalty.

The command said the newsmen were being held on suspicion of giving aid to Communists, agitating insurrection, spreading malicious falsehoods about the government and reporting an illegal assembly.

The six face maximum sentences of 15 years.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Glasgow, where drinking long has been recognized as a seri-

City magistrates Tuesday approved 123 applications for pub music licenses, the first they have issued. Those who prefer their scotch in silence still can seek refuge in more than 1,000 non-musical pubs.

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—floods continued to sweep through central and eastern Turkey today, and eight more dead were reported. The death toll attributed to the floods and lightning this week stands at 21, according to reports reaching Istanbul.

Doggone Difficult

Daytone Beach, Fla. — It was a doggone exasperating case, you'd have to admit. Policeman C.A. Russell agreed to help the lady find her dog, which was lost on the beach. Sure enough, he did find it. Only he couldn't find the lady when he brought the pooch back in his car. Then he had to leave to check another case and when he got back to the car the dog was gone again. He couldn't find it again but finally found the owner and turned the case over to her.

Cheese Pleases At Parties

The patio makes a relaxed and pleasant place to entertain in the summer. And cheese is an easy food to feature at patio parties. For instance, use cheese slices or cream cheese spreads in five-ounce aluminum dishes. A fine Cheddar cheese spread is also available in a plastic container fit for table service. If you want to go in for more preparation, go gourmet with Stuffed Shrimps. Prepare this Borden Kitchen-developed hors d'oeuvre in advance and keep chilled until party time.

Roquefort Stuffed Shrimp
(Makes 24 to 30 stuffed shrimps)
2 pounds raw jumbo shrimp 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 (5-ounce) container Borden's Cream Cheese 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
1 (1 1/4 oz.) package Roquefort cheese Dash white pepper
1 teaspoon capers 1 cup finely chopped parsley

Cook, shell and devein shrimp. With a sharp knife, split shrimp about two-thirds through. Blend remaining ingredients except parsley. With a small spatula, carefully stuff cheese mixture into each shrimp. Place chopped parsley on waxed paper. Dip cheese side of shrimp into parsley. Chill before serving.

Slowdown in Growth of Incomes

By SAM DAWSON
A PBUSINESS News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A slowdown in the growth of personal incomes for the first time in months is about the only sour note in the jangling chorus of good times.

Most business news has been so much better than expected in the spring now ending that about the only worry has been: Is it too good to last?

Personal spending is the biggest bulwark of the economy. It is broader than either government or business spending. The steady climb in personal income totals has strengthened this bulwark. This in turn has bolstered industry and trade and above all has inspired hopes that the general upturn will continue into the foreseeable future.

And personal income did climb in May. The only disappointment is that its growth was only about half that of April. Available signs show June pretty much like May.

If May is a new trend rather than an exception the question becomes: Can personal consumption expand enough, and fast enough, to justify all of the high hopes on which business is now basing its planning?

Personal debts are rising. And these often represent prior repayment claims when the weekly paycheck is up for distribution.

The May figure for personal incomes put the total at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of about $485 billion. This would be about $1.25 billion above the revised April rate, which at first was estimated to have topped March by $2.2 billion.

One reason that personal incomes are expected to go on rising, at whatever rate, is that the very business boom itself will generate expanded payrolls. If all of the corporate plans for spending on new plants and equipment are carried out, there will be new jobs and longer work weeks.

And employment totals did go up in May to a record 71 million, with 81,000 new jobs in manufacturing alone. The factory work week was the longest and the overtime hours the highest for any May in nearly 10 years.

CARNIVAL

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's not in the cards for Dick Van Dyke's Emmy to go to his head. He has been too familiar with the sour smell of failure.

Dick can match his failures with any star in the business and have a few flops left over. Dick got in more or less by default. He and a pal tried to start an advertising agency in Danville, Ill., after the war but the town wasn't big enough to support one. The pair began playing around the area with a record act-mimicking to the records of famous personalities.

Encouraged by their success, they came to California and scored a hit in several small night clubs. Then they were booked into the bigtime—Slapsy Maxie's, where Martin and Lewis made their Hollywood debut.

"It was a disaster," Dick recalled. "A lot of big stars were there opening night. I remember Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz and Barry Sullivan. They just sat and looked at us. We didn't get a laugh in the whole show. When we came offstage, we were handed our salaries and told to leave."

The act also was canceled out of the Blue Angel in New York, and Dick and his partner, Phil Erickson, took to the road for jobs. That wasn't easy, since they had two wives and six children between them. They finally broke up the act in Atlanta in 1952, and Dick took a job as announcer with a local television station.

He started his own show which he wrote and performed for two hours each weekday, painting the scenery on weekends. A New Orleans station lured him away. Then he was tapped by CBS to join its stable of promising young comedies.

Instant stardom? Nope. "I was on the first panel of 'To Tell the Truth' as the comic relief, only it didn't turn out that way," he said. "I was fired after four shows. Then I did another panel, 'Laugh Line,' and a daytime show in which I was supposed to be the new Tom Breneman. Each was dropped after the first possible cancellation time, 13 weeks."

For a whole year he did nothing but mow the lawn, play golf and collect his CBS check. Finally he told the network he wasn't getting anywhere, and the contract was dissolved. Dick tried a play in Bucks County, Pa., then landed a Broadway revue with Bert Lahr, Nancy Walker and Shelley Berman. Dick got great reviews. The show lasted 15 days.

Dick hunted for other acting jobs. A television spectacular led to "Bye Bye Birdie" on Broadway, which led to his award-winning CBS series plus movie roles such as his current one in "The Art of Love."

I checked my watch. I still had time before my luncheon appointment. I told the cab driver to take me back to the section where the Minettis had formerly lived. When we got there I soon found the local bar. We stopped in front of it.

"Keep the flag down," I said. "You want to come in and have a drink?"

He glanced back at the sedan, which had parked about a half-block away. "I guess I could go a beer," he said.

We went inside. I threw a five-dollar bill on the bar. "Give me a double," I said, "and my friend here whatever he wants." I turned and went to the phone booth, and called the information number at the airport. "I'd like to get some information," I said, when the girl answered, "about flights out of Washington seven years ago."

"Just a minute," she said. She sounded puzzled. It was more than a minute, but finally a man answered. "What was it you wanted?" he asked.

"My name is March," I said. "I'm with the Intercontinental Insurance Company out of New York. I'd like some information on flights out of Washington seven years ago."

"I'm sorry," he said coldly, "but we can't give out any information from there records over the phone. I suggest that you write us a letter and then we can make a decision about it."

"But..." I began.

"That is our firm policy," he said curtly. There was a click as he disconnected.

I replaced the receiver and left the booth. The taxi driver was at the bar, working on his beer. My glass was waiting for me beside my change. I took a drink and glanced at the bartender. He looked as if he'd been tending bar a long time I called him over and separated one dollar from the rest of the change. I pushed it across the bar.

"For your piggy bank," I said.

He took the bill without saying anything and put it in a glass back of the bar. He turned back to stare at me impassively.

"Is this the bar where Tony Minetti was killed seven years ago?"

He hesitated. "Yeah, it happened here. But we was in the clear. The ABC looked it over and said so."

"I believe you," I said. "I just happened to remember that it happened in a neighborhood bar and thought maybe this was it."

"Were you a friend of Tony's?" he asked.

"Yeah, I just came from seeing his wife," I said, and hoped that seemed to answer the question. "I've been away for seven years. Were you on the stick that night?"

"I was here."

"A terrible thing," I said. "You can say that again," he told me. "Tony was a nice guy, you know, a two- or three-beer man and no trouble. Then this other guy came in. I spotted him for a hood the minute he came through the door, but he was sober and there wasn't no reason I could refuse to serve him. He had a couple of fast drinks and I guess he must've got juiced up even though he didn't show it. He made a crack to Tony. Tony turned around, a little hot, and answered it. The guy hit him and Tony was on the floor. The guy grabbed a bottle off the bar, smashed the end off it, and dived on top of Tony. The whole thing was over before I could grab my club from under the bar and the guy beat it. The whole thing was maybe no more than two, three minutes, and a nice guy is dead."

"You got a good look at the hood?"

"Yes, I got a good look at him, but that didn't keep him from getting away. Some customers rushed out after him and so did I. All we saw was a car pulling away and it was too far to see the license plate."

"How come the bottle was on the table?"

"The guy asked me to leave it there."

"And the cops never caught up with the guy?"

"No, but somebody else did."

"What do you mean?"

"I guess it was a couple of months later," he said. "One of the detectives came in and asked me to go down and look at the guy in the morgue. He'd been fished out of the river. He was the guy all right. But he was dead. The detective told me he was a small-time hood, but they couldn't connect him with anybody. They figured out that maybe he was hopped up that night and just felt like killing somebody."

"Remember what the name of the hood was?"

"Sure. A funny name. Willie Nemo."

Electorates Pick Choices Fairly Early

EDITOR'S NOTE — Nearly half the American electorate decides early on the basis of party—how it will vote. But some voters are undecided right down to the wire. Who are the deciders, the ones who often turn elections? Third of four articles.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

For the American voter there are 189 shopping days until Christmas—and just 52 fewer than that to pick a personal choice for president.

For some voters, it just isn't long enough.

Some will wait until the candidates emerge officially from the party conventions. Some will choose during the campaign. Perhaps one in 10 will wait until the last two weeks.

Between 30 and 40 per cent, most of them party stalwarts, know now—and will know all along.

But when current issues tend to pull a voter away from the party of his allegiance, he takes much longer to decide.

"People often say they vote for the man—because that seems the intelligent thing to do—but many of them are actually voting for the party," explained Prof. Angus Campbell of the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

The center's interviewers and analysts have been doing deep, nationwide studies of American voters in every national election since 1948 probing not only how he votes, but why.

From their figures, the American voter stacks up this way in noncritical times:

Twenty per cent are strong Democrats.

Twenty-five per cent are weak Democrats.

Twenty-five per cent are non-partisan, popularly called the independents.

Fifteen per cent are weak Republicans.

Fifteen per cent are strong Republicans.

In the off-year elections, when the races are largely local or congressional, interest is lowest. The strong party affiliates go to the polls in strength. But a great percentage of independents and a lesser percentage of weak party supporters stay home.

Who then are the independents? The old textbook notion is that they are the true weighers of the issues, the judges, the arbiters of national conscience. But modern researchers have found that in practice they are mostly the disinterested, the uninformed, the "I don't care—no opinion" political creatures who do not always vote.

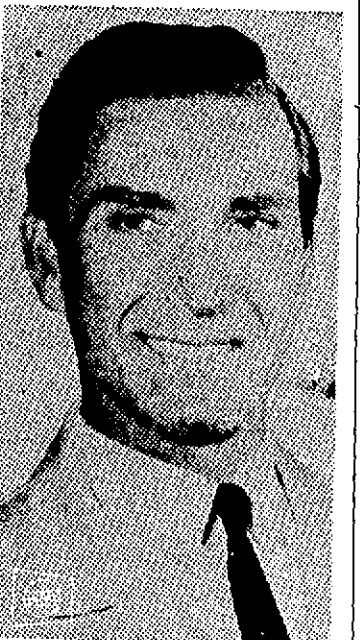

From them, SRC interviewers get a full range of answers—from the woman who said she had no personal preference, who knew the campaign was "a critical time" but would be glad when it was over, to the man who said:

"I just vote the way the guy on the corner tells me, cause he does me favors."

While largely the independents constitute a range of apathy between the two parties, they also yield an unusual one per cent who are likely the elite of the voting population. These few are among the best informed voters, but they salute neither party flag.

If You Really Mean a Thing It's Allright to Think About It But Just Don't Say It

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you really mean something, it's perfectly all right to think — but don't say it.

In most cases, easy just the opposite.

That is the only safe and sane rule for polite conversation. It is also the whole art of double-talk, skill in the use of which can advance you in the worlds of society and business and win you a reputation for warm sincerity.

Here are a few more useful examples:

"You're the only one I know who gave up smoking and didn't gain weight." When a bucket is already full of lard, how can you put anymore in?

"Senator, I don't know where we'd be without men like you, selflessly dedicated to the public interest." We'd be better off.

"For once, let's pick a candidate we can all take pride in." For once, let's pick one who can get elected.

"I just adore backyard cook-outs. And now that I've seen how you broil your steaks—" I think I'll have some of that yummy charcoal instead.

"There isn't a single gray hair in your head, Ed. How do you keep it that color?" It looks like you use brown shoe polish on one temple, and black on the other.

"The thing I like about Grace is how she always says things in such an amusing way." Half a wit is always funnier than none.

"Oh, what a perfectly darling, darling, darling baby!"—Ugh—this one ought to set back parenthood half a century.

"Mind you, George, I'm not saying you're not worth more money to the firm." What I'm telling you, George, is that you are not going to get any more, now or later.

"According to the boss, young Abernathy looks like a real corner." So let's protect ourselves and gang up on him before the situation gets out of hand.

"Alice, your husband must be a real doll to surprise you on your anniversary with such a stunning mink stole." So the gossip must be true—the old fool is cheating on her.

"Those sunglasses make you look like a movie star, Rosemarie." But they don't hide those big dark bags under your eyes, baby. How late were you out last night?

State Budgets Continue to Grow

By PAUL A. DRISCOLL

CHICAGO (AP)—State budgets are continuing to grow but this year, at least, legislators are counting more on an expanding economy for increased revenue than they are on tax boosts.

While governors of many states signed new tax laws this year—22 legislatures were in session—the hopes were that business activity, fed partly by the federal tax cut, would surge upward for the fourth consecutive year.

There is no telling at this time precisely what impact the tax cut will have, but a year ago, Ronald, you've looked like a million dollars." Now what are you going to do to improve that 10-cent mind?

ago the Treasury Department estimated that a $10-billion federal reduction would spur investment, consumer spending and employment to a point where state and local governments would reap close to $3 billion extra in taxes.

In 20 states, according to a study by Leon Rothenberg, research director for the Federation of Tax Administrators, income tax receipts will rise automatically as a result of the federal tax cut. In these states, individuals and corporations are allowed deductions on their state income taxes based on their amount of federal income taxes. Thus, lower federal taxes mean lower deductions and higher payments to the states.

An Associated Press survey shows several states raised their income tax withholding rates to bring them in line with this windfall. Included were Massachusetts, Oregon, Alabama and Minnesota, according to information compiled by Commerce Clearing House, Inc., of Chicago.

However the added revenue are obtained, they apparently will be spent for present improvements and administration not for past mistakes.

"Unlike some years in the past," Rothenberg said in his study, "there were few instances where taxes had to be increased because deficits had developed during the current budget period as a result of an excess of past commitments over available resources."

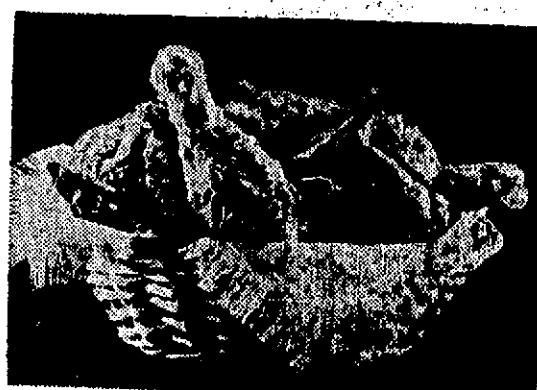

Education absorbs the largest portion of state budgets and where new taxes were imposed this year they were almost always for this purpose. However, mental health, highways and public assistance also will benefit from the increased revenue.

Sources for new taxes vary from personal income to sales of peanuts.

Low Calorie-Low Cost Lunch

Creamed foods make delightful luncheon or supper dishes. You can please everyone by preparing the sauce with a low calorie nonfat dry milk, ideal for this type of cookery since the packaged product is homogenized-smooth. It is highly nutritious, too, as it contains all the important elements of top quality pasteurized milk with only the liquid and fat removed. Here is a shrimp sauce developed by the Borden Kitchen. It is low in calories and low in cost, but high in flavor.

Seafood Sauce
(Makes 6 1/2 cup servings)
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 to 1 1/2 teaspoon rosemary
2 1/2 cups Starlac nonfat dry milk, liquefied
2 cups (two 5-ounce cans) cooked small shrimp

Melt butter in a medium-size saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually stir in liquefied nonfat dry milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add cooked shrimp. Cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve in putty shells or on toast.

McClellan in Hassle on Rights Issue

By GORDON BROWN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., precipitated a Senate hassle during consideration of the civil rights bill that resulted in a rather unusual Senate vote to override a ruling by the presiding officer.

McClellan offered an amendment to the bill which would have added a new title to the measure. The new title would have amended the present labor act.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., objected that the amendment was not germane to the bill and raised a point of order against it. Since the Senate is operating under the cloture rule, amendments are required to be germane.

However, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who was presiding, ruled the amendment was germane to the bill. He said it appeared to him that the civil rights bill "is so broad in the field of injunctions, in criminal law, in criminal contempt, with regard to the Civil Rights Commission, and in reference to jobs, that the amendment is germane."

Whereupon Humphrey appealed the ruling to the Senate — this meant that the Senate itself would decide whether the amendment was germane or not.

In the ensuing vote only 33 senators voted with Stennis while 48 voted that his ruling was incorrect.

This disposed of McClellan's amendment.

The amendment itself would have given the attorney general the right to file court actions in behalf of individuals believing their rights under the labor act were being violated or denied. McClellan said he thought the rights of laboring people should be protected the same as the rights of others would be protected in the civil rights bill.

A ruling by the chair seldom is appealed to the Senate for a vote and almost never does the Senate override the chair.

But the Senate is in somewhat of an unusual situation right now, operating as it is under the cloture rule which was voted by the members to shut off debate on the civil rights bill.

Under this rule senators may not make dilatory motions nor offer dilatory amendments or amendments which are not germane to the bill.

Likewise, a senator is limited to a total of 60 minutes of time to address the Senate from the time cloture was invoked until the bill is passed.

McClellan's effort cost him seven of his 60 minutes.

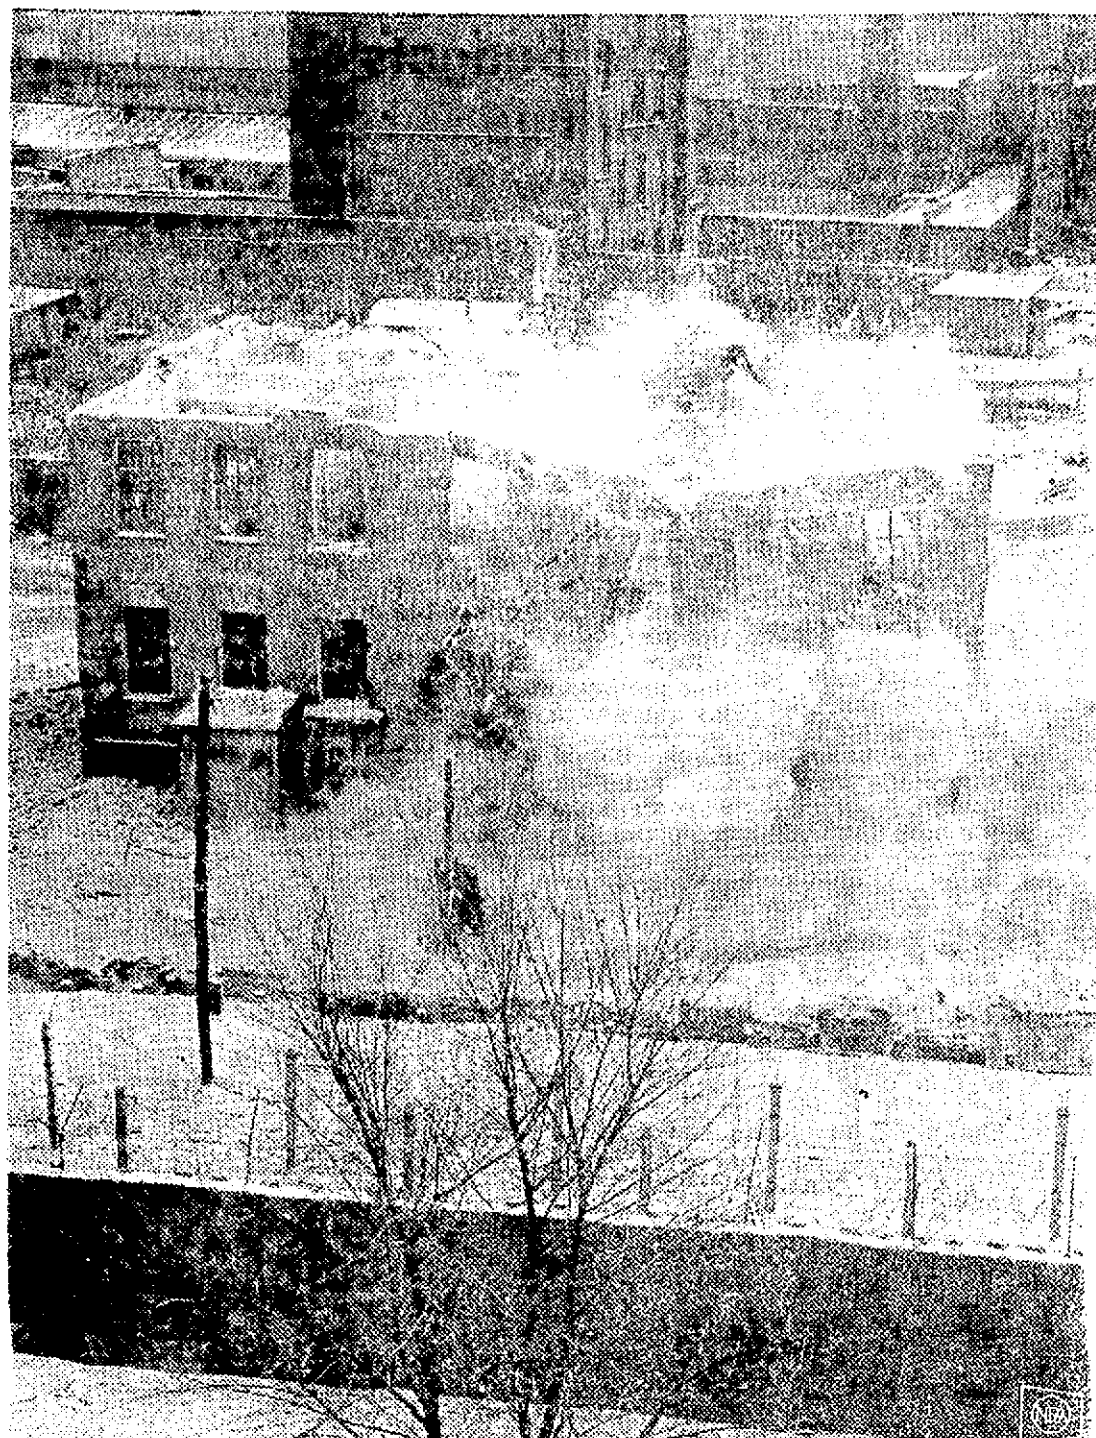

There was a slight shifting of positions by Arkansas House members in their votes on the two federal pay bills which were before the House this year.

The first bill, which would have given members of Congress immediate pay raises of $10,000 yearly, was defeated 222-184.

On that bill Rep. J. W. Trimble, voted for passage while Reps. Wilbur Mills, Oren Harris and E. C. Gathings voted against.

The second bill, just passed by a vote of 243-157, would provide members of Congress with pay increases of $7,500 a year effective next year.

This time Harris joined Trimble in voting for the bill. Gathings voted against. Mills cast his vote against the measure and then announced he had a live pair with Rep. A. S. Herlong, D-Fla., who supported the bill but was absent. So Mills withdrew his "nay" vote and voted "present." He was listed as being paired against the bill.

PATH OF DESTRUCTION—To make it harder for people to flee East Berlin, Communist authorities are dynamiting houses along the Berlin Wall. The idea is to give armed guards a better view of the Communist-created no-man's-land.

"FLUFFY" IS FLUFFY COMEDY—Incongruity is the ingredient that makes the new film, "Fluffy," such good comedy. Pert and pretty Shirley Jones, left, for instance, appears as a brunette, a far cry from her naturally blonde tresses. Then, too, there is Tony Randall and "pal," right. Tony and the lion contribute hilarious scenes to the film.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The American viewer still loves television and has made it his boon companion of leisure hours, but he is becoming more selective about what he watches and more critical of what he sees.

While expressing satisfaction with television coverage of real events — news, specials and sports — he was disappointed in the past season's dramatic shows. He found them depressing, morbid, and concentrated on troubled personalities. He yearned for more rollicking escape-type dramatic shows.

That in essence was the finding in an audience study of over 600 viewers in 11 different areas made by the Chicago firm of Social Research, Inc., reported in the current issue of the trade magazine Broadcasting.

On the happy side of the ledger, the report found the public was grateful for the "incredible array of top-notch, free entertainment available," appreciated its cultural influence, and is not complaining so much these days about the commercials.

On the critical side, it noted the medical, psychiatric and social-illness themes in many dramatic programs — the report called the past year "the sick season" — and expressions of a desire for more shows with the good guys winning over the bad guys — also more physical violence, of all things.

The interviewers also found the audience was not as stimulated as they once were with comedy shows and variety programs. McHugh and Hoffman, the Birmingham, Mich., television-radio consulting firm that commissioned the study, passed on the conclusion that this past season's high ratings of comedy and variety shows were in reality a measure of "how few of this year's television dramas have appealed to the broader American public." The "problem shows," they deduced, sent the viewers flocking to comedies and variety for "refuge and relaxation."

Dead Whale Carries Red Transmitter

SITKA, Alaska (AP) — A dead whale carrying a Soviet-made harpoon equipped with a radio transmitter and a trailing radar reflector was found Tuesday floating in the Pacific off Sitka.

In Seattle, Wash., today, the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries said there was no cause for alarm.

A spokesman for the bureau said this undoubtedly was new gear used by Soviet whaling fleets. He said catcher boats may kill more whales than they can take back to the factory ship at one time, so they mark the ones they leave behind with electronic devices to help find them.

The dead whale was a blue fin on which the season is open. Soviet whaling fleets are free to operate outside the three-mile limit.

The find, about 1 1/2 miles off Baranof Island in southeast Alaska, was reported early today by Jim Jaqua of KSA-TV here. He said markings on the equipment were "definitely Russian."

Wrestling No More

Dania, Fla. — Seminole Indians have reported that someone stole 14 prize alligators used in wrestling matches pitting a man against a "gator."

It appeared that the rituals were stolen for their skins, which are worth about $3.75 a foot. Authorities estimated the value of the hides from the 14 missing alligators at nearly $200.

Tributes on Grave of JFK Are Removed

By ELTON C. FA Y
WASHINGTON (AP) — A baby's shoe, a woman's glove, a religious medal, a lone flower have been placed on the hillside grave.

They rest on the sun-seared grass, along with the berets and caps of fighting men—some of the personal remembrances from the multitude which daily moves slowly and silently past the place where John F. Kennedy is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The caps—the deep green beret of the Army Special Forces, the standard Army green of the conventional forces, the forest green of the Marines and the Air Force blue—remain.

But each morning the tributes of the visitors are removed, packed away and sent once a week to the White House. From there they are made available to Mrs. Kennedy, who decides what should be done with them. Some presumably are set aside for the time when a Kennedy memorial is built.

An estimated three million persons have visited the grave. Only a comparative few drop mementos on the grave, but these now total hundreds or thousands.

Some of the tribute objects obviously are brought with the intention of leaving them. Others are spontaneous, like the glove removed and dropped onto the grave by a woman.

A group of pupils from a Richmond, Va., school trooped slowly past. When they were gone, attendants found a five-dollar bill. Clipped to it was a note—contributed to the Kennedy Memorial Library at Cambridge.

There are, of course, the formal floral pieces. Most of them come from organizations, from church groups, from foreign statesmen or diplomatic missions.

But a child passes by and drops a single flower on the grave.

The military mementos started on the day of Kennedy's burial. A sergeant of the Army Special Forces, standing by the grave when the funeral throng was gone, removed his beret and placed it on the mound.

The other services were quick to follow the sergeant's gesture and the caps of soldiers, sailors, Marines and Air Force men joined the green beret.

Winter storms and summer sun and rain weathered the caps, then worked at the fabric. A few days before last Memorial Day, officials of the Military District of Washington decided they needed replacing. This was done.

Industrial Output Is Holding Up

NEW YORK (AP) — With summer officially due next week the nation's industrial output is holding reassuringly high.

Government statistics mostly cover only the period up to mid-May. But the news from key sectors of industry gives June high billing.

Steel mill activity is slipping only slightly, with summer prospects better than usual.

Auto production and sales are continuing around record levels with another big spurt set for the autumn.

New orders for other durable goods are strong, promising brisk activity in the factories for awhile. Soft goods makers are looking for an advance in coming weeks and months as the impact of the federal income tax cut spreads.

NEW YORK (AP) — With summer officially due next week the nation's industrial output is holding reassuringly high.

Government statistics mostly cover only the period up to mid-May. But the news from key sectors of industry gives June high billing.

Steel mill activity is slipping only slightly, with summer prospects better than usual.

Auto production and sales are continuing around record levels with another big spurt set for the autumn.

New orders for other durable goods are strong, promising brisk activity in the factories for awhile. Soft goods makers are looking for an advance in coming weeks and months as the impact of the federal income tax cut spreads.

Last year saw a leveling off in industrial output during the summer, with the Federal Reserve Board's index even taking a slight dip, leading the cautious to wonder if the business upswing was coming to a halt.

But the steady gains last fall and winter, and the upsurge in April brought the industrial output index to an impressive high. The pace was faster than it appeared.

What businessmen are wondering now is if momentum will carry through the summer months or whether the usual hot weather doldrums will give another pause in the 40-month business advance.

Two of the big bulwarks of the spring gains, autos and steel, seem sure to take a siesla.

Other segments of the economy are counting on offsetting these seasonal slowdowns with better than usual summer business. Soft goods and the wide-spread recreation and vacation industries are especially hopeful.

Both slowdowns and gains will vary widely by regions.

The Southwest and the Pacific coast are counting on growing electronics and aerospace industries to keep their economy mounting.

The older industrial centers in the Midwest and Northeast also have seen a better industrial mix in recent years, so that a summer slowdown in steel won't be as all-important as it once was.

For the national economy as a whole, the question still is how much of a summer slowdown will develop.

The optimists hold the best is yet to come. Some of the cautious think the trend will still be upward, but that the fastest growth may already have been felt.

Quake Hit City Menaced by Flood

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

NIIGATA, Japan (AP)—Battered and broken by one of the strongest Japanese earthquakes of modern times, Niigata was menaced today by fire and flood.

Police removed 7,350 persons, including 2,000 hospital patients, from the vicinity of petroleum tanks blazing along the waterfront of this big port on the northwest coast, the center of Japan's petroleum industry.

Workers tore down 300 flimsy houses in the path of the fire, but the flames inched toward a hydrogen tank 90 feet away, raising fears of a gigantic explosion.

Also threatened was a tank of gasoline additive that would lose poisonous fumes over the crippled city of 340,000 if it went up.

Ninety oil storage tanks on the devastated waterfront had caught fire. U.S. Air Force and Japanese planes and helicopters flew fire-dousing foam to Niigata airport.

Much of Niigata is land reclaimed from the sea, and in the wake of Tuesday's quake a large area began to sink. Flood waters spread into a third of the city. By mid-afternoon today they ranged from ankle deep to waist high.

The rolling earthquake, Japan's worst since 1923, spread destruction over 11 prefectures with a population of nearly 17 million spread over 150 miles of Japan's northwest coast. The confirmed casualty toll was surprisingly low, however.

The national police reported 2 dead, 10 missing and 282 injured, many seriously. The quake damage could not be assessed yet, but officials said it would run to hundreds of millions of dollars.

The National Railways, which halted all operations in the area because of rockslides and twisted rails, estimated its damage at $30 million.

Stunned inhabitants of Niigata, site of a national athletic meet attended by Emperor Hirohito only a week ago, wandered aimlessly without water, electricity, cooking gas, communications or transportation. Premier Hayato Ikeda ordered immediate measures to move 200 tons of rice, hardtack for 10,000 persons, 250,000 candles, 50,000 flashlights and supplies of water to Niigata.

There were no reports of casualties among the 60 or so Americans living in the Niigata area. U.S. military authorities reported that a 16-man Coast Guard LORAN navigation station near Niigata had been cut off from communications and water. All personnel were reported safe, however.

Lack of water seriously hampered the fire fighters. Most of Japan's oil and gas wells are concentrated in Niigata prefecture. The port had more than 200 storage tanks containing some 300,000 tons of gasoline and oil.

Can't Read, Swazis Vote With Nails

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP)—A six-inch nail and a ballot with 48 symbols such as a horseshoe or a bunch of bananas will be used by voters next week as Swaziland takes a big step toward self-government.

Vast numbers of the 240,000 tribalistic Swazis cannot read or write. They show little interest in the hurly burly of modern politics.

To simplify voting procedures, all 48 national roll candidates have been allocated different symbols.

All the Swazi voters will have to do is plunge a nail into the voting paper and perforate it alongside the symbol representing the candidate of his choice.

The only woman candidate, Mrs. Regina Twala, an African, drew a pair of trousers as her symbol. Carl Todd, a white candidate, drew a bunch of bananas.

Even with voting so simplified, officials predict thousands of spoiled ballots.

Contributing to a choice political situation is the fact that eight political groups, two of them white, will contest the elections.

Only 73,000 persons of the country's total population of 250,000 are eligible to vote.

The 58 candidates are vying for 2 legislative council seats. Swaziland's elevation from the backwoods of tribalism to an independent state is being watched by her powerful race-segregated neighbor, South Africa, and to a lesser extent by Portuguese-ruled Mozambique.

SHORT RIBS

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't know who those geniuses are going to put on Tuesday nights next year," said comedian Alan King, "but it's going to be a very lonely Tuesday."

He referred to the demise after six years of CBS' "Garry Moore Show," whose swan song Tuesday night was bright, amusing, sentimental and sad.

Moore, speaking of the sudden cancellation of the show, minced no words and showed a bit of resentment. The studio audience expressed its feelings with loud and long clapping, cheers and whistles for the star and members of the show's family—Dorothy, Kirby, Marion Lorne, Carol Burnett, King and Allen Funt whose "Candid Camera" was a spin-off of the show. Moore was close to tears at the end.

The abrupt dropping of the show is a real mystery. It has been consistently, from 1958 on, a lively, joyous variety hour, invariably in good taste and with imaginative production numbers.

It will indeed be a lonely Tuesday night for a lot of people. The CBS programmers will replace it next season with "The Nurses," moved over from another night. Hospital drama is no real substitute for people who enjoy comedy-variety shows.

Moore, as often has been pointed out, isn't a terribly funny comedian and he can neither dance nor sing. But he projects as a fine, kindly man and works well with a lot of people of diverse talents. The result has been, usually, an entertaining hour. The show will really be missed.

Tuesday night's re-run of "Mr. Novak" on NBC was an earnest little tale about the triumph of a fine teacher over his personal problems, mostly involving alcohol.

It was interesting to compare that serious-minded show with the trite, half-hour comedy called "Hey Teacher," on CBS Monday night, first of a summer series replacing "The Lucy Show." The program was made as a pilot for a projected series but never was sold.

Dawne Hickman played a scared young teacher on his first day with his third graders strictly for laughs. The students were smarter and tougher than teacher; the smartest man in the whole school was the janitor and the hero was so inadequate he hid in a closet as the kids trooped into the classroom.

Both programs were made at about the same time. One, understandably, got nowhere. The other was a mild success. The only difference and it was a very big one, was the very different treatment.

Most Swazis support Sobhuza II, the traditional king of the Swazis whose word is law and whose numerous royal children and relations are entrenched as headmen and chiefs throughout the country.

Swaziland's economic structure is greatly dependent on the good will of the South African Republic. Most of the country's revenue comes through South Africa, and to a lesser extent by Portuguese-ruled Mozambique.

One Failing Common to Candidates

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton and the man he is trying to head off for the Republican presidential nomination, Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, have one thing in common: they contradict themselves.

So does former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

On June 4 Scranton said he could run for the vice presidency on the ticket with Goldwater and said he did not know of "any extremely basic differences" between them.

He said: "Both of us believe in a strong foreign policy... in the government's acting strong, on the local level then on the state, and finally on the federal level."

"There are comparatively little differences between various Republican leaders."

He added he didn't know precisely Goldwater's views on civil rights although why not is hard to explain. Goldwater has talked plenty about them.

Up to this time Scranton had said he was not a presidential candidate, would be willing to be drafted, but wasn't stirred up enough about the issues although "in almost the very next sentence he said he was stirred up about foreign problems and our 'lack of leadership.'"

Then on June 12 he switched, announced his candidacy for the presidency, said he had said many times he was not interested in the vice presidency, and called Goldwater's views a "weird parody" on Republican beliefs. He listed a number of differences between him and Goldwater.

He went on to accuse Goldwater — without mentioning his name — of spreading "havoc" and complained that a "small but vocal minority too often has made our party sound naive, irresponsible, reactionary and heartless."

But after this he was asked: if Goldwater got the nomination, would he support him? He said he would do everything in his power, no matter who is nominated, "to see that we have a united party."

Nowhere has he precisely spelled out where he disagrees with Goldwater except now he says one of the factors which induced him to become a candidate, was Goldwater's vote last week against ending the filibuster against the civil rights bill, a position Goldwater had long said he would take.

Spun A Spool
Lagos, Nigeria — Television technology has provided a new magic relic for some of Nigeria's juju medicine men.

Alan Guley, an Australian news executive at the Nigerian Television Service, noticed recently his supply of plastic film bobbins was sharply diminished. Television film is wound on these small spools.

Questioning employees, Guley discovered local juju doctors would purchase spools for use in diagnosing illnesses. They would toss a few of the brightly colored bobbins into the ground, and make a diagnosis by interpreting printing stamped on the bobbins.

The type of sickness was determined, Guley was told, by whether the words "Kodak" and "Made In England" faced up or down after the spools stopped rolling.

Barry Plans No Attack on Scranton

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater has indicated he plans no campaign attack on his newly declared rival for the Republican presidential nomination, Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

Sources close to the Arizona senator said today he has vetoed a campaign offensive suggested by some of his advisers which would have labeled the Pennsylvania governor "The puppet candidate" of Republicans out to stop him.

Goldwater has not ruled out Scranton as a vice-presidential running mate should he win the presidential nomination, the sources indicate.

With 674 delegates pledged or committed to his column—19 above the 655 figure he needs for the nomination—Goldwater plans little in the way of active campaigning before the convention.

Yet he makes it plain that he is out to capture as many more delegates as he can before the convention opens in San Francisco July 13. Montana will choose 14 Friday in the last of the state conventions for GOP delegate selections.

Goldwater recognizes the danger of slippage in his delegate count, and cites it as the reason for an effort to capture more backing before the convention.

He set the tone for his campaign against Scranton in Dallas Tuesday—and it is much the same as that he waged against New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in their three presidential primary campaigns.

Goldwater answered Scranton's criticism without naming the Pennsylvania governor—and made a call for Republican unity the theme of his rebuttal.

"Please, don't unite yourselves against anything but the opposition," he urged more than 10,000 Republicans at the Texas GOP convention. "Don't carry grudges into the ballot boxes."

Out to counter Scranton's charge that a Goldwater ticket would spell defeat for other GOP candidates in November, the senator said he intend to lead Republicans to victory 30... from the courthouse to the Congress.

"I don't believe that any one Republican could destroy the Republican party," he said.

Summertime Tarts

Summer sets the scene for many social events, and the success of these often hinges on the food served. Flower-like creamy tarts made with sour cream and apricots, developed by the Borden Kitchen, can be a fine finish to a memorable meal. Use packaged, ready-to-use pie crust mix for the shells. To create the petal-like appearance, cut circles of the pastry with a cookie cutter. Place a circle in the bottom of the tart pan and arrange the rest in overlapping fashion around the sides.

Gold and Cream Tarts

(Makes eight 4 1/2 inch tarts)
8 (4 1/2 inch) tart shells, baked
1 1/2 cups (11-oz. package) dried apricots
2 cups water
1/2 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups (1 pint) Borden's Sour Cream
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoons toasted slivered or whole almonds, optional

Cook apricots in water according to directions on the package. Drain well. Add corn syrup to apricots; stir well. Combine beaten eggs, sour cream, sugar and apricots. Pour sour cream mixture over apricots. Fill tart shells with mixture. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) about 10 minutes or until cream is set. Remove from oven. Garnish with almonds. Cool. Chill in refrigerator about 2 1/2 hours or until cream is well set. Serve cold.
